Aims and objectives

What do you wish to achieve by providing regulated activities?

How will your service help the people who use your services?

Please use the numbered bullet points:

Hailsham House aims to provide whole person care by addressing its residents' physical, emotional and spiritual needs and by promoting the importance of healthy relationships between God, themselves and others.

We place the rights of residents at the forefront of our philosophy of care.

We aim to provide a happy, secure environment and congenial surroundings for every resident.

We aim to ensure that each person is recognised as an individual and care and attention is provided to meet each specific physical and emotional need.

1. It is our objective that those residents who live at Hailsham House should do so with dignity, have the respect of those who support them and be entitled to live a full and active life, given the fundamental right to self-determination and individuality and to achieve their full potential. This is best achieved by sensitive recognition and nurturing of that potential in each individual and understanding that this may change with time. In order to ensure that this happens; each resident's care will be planned individually.

2. The care is not be institutionalized by the requirements of the staff. All human and basic rights are to be accorded to all residents in our care without discrimination.

3. Residents are encouraged to bring their own individuality to share with others and to pursue their own interests and relationships. Hobbies and leisure interests are encouraged and facilitated. Programmes of activities will be provided to encourage mental alertness, self-esteem, and social interaction with other residents.

4. In terms of risk assessment, those residents who are judged competent to judge risks themselves are free to make their own decisions as long as they do not threaten the safety of themselves or others.

5. Staff are to respect personal rights and privacy, and are to be responsive to individual needs. In support of our whole person care ethos, emotional and spiritual support is considered vital to the general well being of each resident.

6. The staff are to be sensitive to the residents' ever-changing needs which may be medical / therapeutic (for physical and mental welfare), psychological, spiritual, emotional or social.

7. The service has been established with a quality-orientated approach to the business and a high degree of quality awareness is developed through all levels of staff training and management. The aim of these measures is to continually improve the quality of the service offered to our clients.

8. Within Hailsham House, we have adopted "Relationship Centred Care" as our principal approach to care provision. We seek to integrate this into all aspects of our operations, with the aim of building stronger relationships between people who will use our services, staff, relatives, friends, etc. The objective being to ensure that the needs and how these are to be met will be clearly defined and the views and experiences are listened to and influence the way the service operates.

The concept of Relationship Centred Care takes the well established concept of Person Centred Care one step further with the recognition that to enable people who will use our services to be happy and fulfilled, we need to understand their past and present relationships with others. It is not just their relationships with staff that are important but also their relationships with family members and other care professionals.

In short, Relationship Centred Care reflects the importance of interactions among people and recognises that these provide the foundation of any therapeutic care activity.
